

GOV. DURBIN REFUSES

Will Not Return Taylor and Finley to Judge Cantrell's Court.

RED HOT DENUNCIATION OF KENTUCKY JUDGE.

Indianapolis, Nov. 2.—Gov. W. T. Durbin, in a lengthy communication addressed to J. C. W. Beckham of Kentucky, refuses to grant the requisition for the extradition of ex-Gov. William S. Taylor and Charles W. Finley, who have been indicted by Kentucky courts for complicity in the murder of Gov. William Goebel. The text of Gov. Durbin's letter to the governor of Kentucky follows:

"Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 2, 1901.—Dear Sir: For the second time requisitions have been made to the governor of this commonwealth, issued by your authority asking for the extradition of William S. Taylor and Charles Finley, alleged fugitives from justice from the state of Kentucky, and at this time residing in the state of Indiana. The indictment presented charges these men with being accessories before the fact of the wilful murder of William Goebel. I respectfully decline to honor the requisition.

"The reasons given for a similar action on the part of my predecessor, the lamented ex-Gov. Mount, still obtain in a pertinent manner as a basis for this refusal, reinforced, as they are, by events that have occurred since that time which only tend to establish the conviction to those who believe in equal and exact justice under the law to all men, that the time has not yet arrived within the environments of this prosecution whereby an unprejudiced and nonpartisan hearing of a trial could be had. I choose to make use of the right and the duty as the executive of commonwealth to exercise a discretionary power of refusal to the end that the purposes of persecution may not force these men before a court partisan to the very extreme of vindictiveness and a jury organized for conviction in its personnel and impalement.

"The reassessment of the late William Goebel was a monstrous crime, deplored, as I believe, by every citizen of Indiana and of the republic. The spirit of assassination is the twin of anarchy. If allowed to go unpunished there could be no more serious crime than that a citizen of a state, or the official representative of the commonwealth in any capacity should be foully murdered as the result of conspiracy or as individual act.

Evidence Was Perjured.

"I have given careful and conscientious consideration to the evidence produced in the case already heard of the person accused of complicity in the murder of William Goebel, so far as has been placed in my hands by the attorneys for the prosecution, and I unhesitatingly affirm that conviction based upon such a mass of self-evident perjury reflects the poisoned passions of a court and jury, and strengthens the belief that were those requisitions honored I would be only aiding the determination of the prosecution to convict these men without any reference to the law, justice or fact. I cannot cause a man from whom the presumption of innocence should never be stripped, except by legal methods, to be subjected to the rapine of political persecution. Kentucky is a commonwealth revered for its high sense of justice and honor; it has given to the jurisprudence of the country some of the ablest lawyers of the nation; it has honorable representation on the supreme bench; it is the birthplace of Abraham Lincoln, the embodiment of justice, who dedicated his life to securing the rights of all men under the law.

It is a state wherein very generally justice has been signally exemplified in the practice and purposes of courts, and this honorable record only emphasizes in conspicuous comparison the odious acts which in the trial court of Judge Cantrell, has been permitted in the name of law, where the life and liberty of citizens are at stake. Can a fair trial be had for these under indictment? What was the object in appropriating one hundred thousand dollars for the conviction of the suspected murderers of William Goebel? Does not the evidence demonstrate that a portion of this sum has been paid for perjury? In the recent trial of Caleb Powers should judicial proprieties have been outraged by the refusal of Judge Cantrell to give a change of venue from his hearing? Why should a jury of twelve partisans of the late Mr. Goebel be selected to try the cause at bar?

Recalls Political Case.

"In striking contrast to the ultra partisanship of the Kentucky judge and jury, I recall an example of the profound sense of justice that characterized a case, largely political in its character, that came before the federal court in Indianapolis shortly after the war, when party spirit was at its zenith. The democratic treasurer of Jennings county was on trial. Gen. Harrison appeared for the prosecution and ex-Gov. Hendricks for the defense.

"The regular panel of jurymen was in the box. Judge Walter Q. Greaham was on the bench. Mr. Hendricks first appealed to the court for a political poll of the jury, and then for a special jury, to be composed of an equal number from the democratic and republican parties. He made a most earnest and eloquent plea that justice to his client and the political character of the case demanded that the jury should be evenly divided between the two leading political parties, and no advantage be given over his client by the insidious influences of a preponderant partisan bias in the jury. Judge Greaham, an ardent republican, very promptly granted the request, and a new jury was empaneled, as asked for by Mr. Hendricks. Compare this act of justice, based on the proposition that no political bias or advantage should enter into the jury box, with the record of the court and jury in the cases that have so far had a hearing in the trial of the alleged murderers of Mr. Goebel.

On this subject Thomas Jefferson wrote: "An officer who is entrusted by the law with the sacred duty of naming judges of life and death for his fellow-citizens, and who selects them from among his political and party friends, ought never to have in his power a second abuse of that tremendous magnitude.

Cites Court of Appeals.

"Does not the action of the court of appeals of Kentucky, in its reversal of the initial convictions in Judge Cantrell's court, emphasize the contention of the governor of this commonwealth that these men sought to be extradited cannot secure a fair and just hearing? Judge Cantrell, candidate for a United States senatorship, instructed a jury that it might convict on the testimony of one alleged accomplice if that testimony was corroborated by that of another alleged accomplice; that it might convict the defendant for the act of another man, to which the defendant had never agreed, and which was the necessary or probable consequence of anything to which the defendant had agreed. It is remarkable that the trial court compelled the defendant to answer the prosecutor's questions in relation to other crimes than the one for which he was on trial, and then, over protests, permitted the specially employed attorney for the prosecution to make an impassioned plea to the jury to hang the defendant on accusations entirely outside of the record. To such a perversion of justice I will not consent to consign any citizen of this commonwealth, be his residence temporary or permanent.

The monstrous rulings and instructions of the court, with its vicious partisanship further represented by a jury unanimously made up of Goebel democrats, is that the court would remember its obligations as a judge rather than its aspirations for a senatorship; that the rules of evidence having universal recognition in all the states of the republic would be followed in this latest trial, especially in view of the reversal of the court of appeals in the former trials. It is a deep disappointment that the utter disregard of justice which marked the previous trial was as notorious in the second trial of Powers as in the first. Consequently I can only voice my condemnation thereof by refusing to honor your requisition, which, in effect, would make me a party to the conviction and punishment of two reputable citizens of Indiana.

"When better assurances of a fair and impartial trial of Messrs. Taylor and Finley shall be given by the trial of those now in Kentucky under indictment for participating in the assassination of Mr. Goebel, and the record of the procedure shall show that an impartial judge sat on the bench

Thanksgiving Proclamation.

"The season is nigh when, according to the time-hallowed custom of our people, the President appoints a day as the special occasion for praise and thanksgiving to God.

"This Thanksgiving finds the people still bowed with sorrow for the death of a great and good President. We mourn President McKinley because we so loved and honored him, and the manner of his death should awaken in the breasts of our people a keen anxiety for the country, and at the same time a resolute purpose not to be driven by any calamity from the path of strong, orderly, popular liberty, which as a nation we have thus far safely trod.

"Yet, in spite of this great disaster, it is nevertheless true that no people on earth have such abundant cause for thanksgiving as we have. The past year in particular has been one of peace and plenty. We have prospered in things material and have been able to work our own uplifting in things intellectual and spiritual. Let us remember that, as much has been given us, much will be expected from us; and that true homage comes from the heart as well as from the lips, and shows itself in deeds. We can best prove our thankfulness to the Almighty by the way in which on this earth and at this time each of us does his duty to his fellow men.

"Now therefore I, Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States, do hereby designate as a day of general thanksgiving, Thursday, the 28th of this present November, and do recommend that throughout the land the people cease from their wonted occupations, and at their several homes and places of worship, reverently thank the giver of all good for the countless blessings of our national life.

"In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done in the city of Washington, this second day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand, nine hundred and one, and of the independence of the United States one hundred and twenty-sixth.

"By the President:

JOHN HAY, Secretary of State."

of itself sufficient cause for a refusal of your request; but, added to this, I have on file letters and protests from many representative democrats of the state, prominent in the organization of the party, and from editors of democratic newspapers, universally condemning the persecution in the Goebel trials as a travesty upon justice, and urging that no requisition be honored for Mr. Taylor and Mr. Finley until reason has resumed sway, and the good name of Kentucky, in its procedures under the law in its courts, be restored.

The Powers Trial.

"I had hoped the trial of Caleb Powers, just concluded, would demonstrate that the efforts of the prosecution were really to determine who the murderers of Mr. Goebel were in a way that would convince the people of the country of a sincere determination to this end; that the jury would be selected for its integrity rather than its partisanship; and non-partisan jurors filled the box, your requisition will be honored.

"Until the time comes that justice is meted out to those now under the jurisdiction of the courts of Kentucky, a requisition leading to such a travesty upon justice as the last trial of Caleb Powers presented will not be honored by the surrender of citizens of Indiana, by any official act of mine. Respectfully,

"WINFIELD T. DURBIN,
Governor of Indiana.
"To His Excellency, J. C. W. Beckham, Governor of Kentucky, Frankfort, Ky.

HOPKINS COUNTY CONDITIONS.

Graphic Story of Outlawry That Has Come From Fostering Armed Union Camps.

NON-UNION MINERS'

GREAT PROVOCATION.

Views of Special Correspondent of a Leading Daily Newspaper.

Earlington Correspondence of the American: From a condition of peace and contentment and security, the section of country of which this town is the active center has become an armed camp, with anarchy seemingly upheld by governmental authority, while the ordinary protection of the law in civilized society has been replaced by a return to the first principles of self-protection on individual responsibility. An army of aliens has invaded this and two adjoining counties, and with modern guns, pistols and dynamite, has destroyed lives and property and undertaken to deny to the people the right to live and labor and pursue their own happiness in their own way. This has been done in the name of union labor, with the avowed object of "unionizing" the mines of the Western Kentucky coal fields. The anomalous and preposterous condition has continued for nearly a year. It is a condition without a parallel in the history of labor troubles. The native workmen, the miners themselves, make common cause with their employers and only ask to be let alone. More than that, they are ready, even anxious, to fight for the right to work as they please. They go to their work with pistols in their belts and guns in their hands in defense of this right. They are angry; they have been fired at time and again; their lives have been shot into; have been dynamited; they know that they are surrounded by men who, if they could, would destroy not only their lives, but their means of living. Several hundred men, most of them armed with long-range rifles, are encamped near Nortonville and near Madisonville, the county seat. They are for the most part union miners who have been brought here to keep up the agitation, to whose numbers are added the few disaffected men who have been persuaded to leave these mines and join the union. The camps are carefully guarded in military fashion; but it has been thoroughly established that the attacks on miners, their houses and the property of the coal companies have been made by men from these camps. Consequently it is not surprising that here in Earlington, a town of 8,000 inhabitants, as well as at the mines and mining settlements, men go about with Winchester in their hands and pistols in holsters to protect their lives and property.

The Tragedy at Emper.

A few days ago a guard and a miner at Emper, fifteen miles below here, were fired upon. A deputy sheriff tried to run down the men who did the shooting and was killed by a shot fired from the woods. A soft-nosed bullet tore away a great part of his thigh. When I visited the place a few hours later twenty-five or thirty men received me, each with a gun in his hand, carrying a rifle or a pistol or both. Most of them were negro miners, among them being the man who early in the morning had lain behind an embankment while the long 38-00 bullets plowed furrows in the ground by him or sang over his body. Naturally he hasn't great regard for the union, and would have been a valuable member of any sheriff's posse organized to rid the county of the murderers. So, like others, would have been the men of the same mine who were fired at a week or ten days ago, or those who were in the tippie at Providence when that was shot into, or the occupants of the house through which sixteen rifle balls were shot one night earlier in the trouble.

The great wonder is that, with all this shooting, more persons have not been killed and wounded. True, the shooting is chiefly at night, or, if in the day time, at long range from the brush and woods; but it is evident that your union miner is a mighty poor shot. It is also remarkable that the display of force on both sides, the shooting almost nightly, and the use of dynamite, the list of casualties is not greater. As a matter of fact only three men have been killed since the war commenced, and only eight or ten more have been wounded. But at any moment there may be an outbreak that will cost many lives and ruin much property.

State of Terror.

Meanwhile a whole district lives in a state of terror, and the business of mining the coal is conducted at a greatly increased expense for the maintenance of guards, the building of log forts at the mine tipples, the employment of secret service men, and the purchase of arms and ammunition, not to mention the enormous waste incurred in supporting in idleness for months on a stretch the 400 or 600 men who, with their families, are living on the scanty dole of the United Mine Workers' Association. These men are in the camps or are living in houses near the mines. It is chiefly from those in the camps that the trouble has come, and that the danger is threatened. The bringing together of from 200 to 300 armed men in one camp is not a peaceful indication, though the leaders of the mob declare that they are proceeding peaceably under the law and know nothing of any acts of violence. These leaders and organizers, by the way, constitute another element of waste, when the economy of the situation is considered. They have official headquarters at Madisonville, where a large staff is maintained in a style and with a degree of comfort that must be highly satisfactory to a man accustomed to painfully dig his living out of the coal mines. It might be called a mansion. It is surrounded by a picket line on the grass and occasionally potting at some unwary miner.

Militia in Sympathy.

And, then, there is the expense to the counties and the state. The county must bear the expense of the guards when the operators ask for their appointment. The state ordered out the militia once, and might have saved itself the trouble, as the soldiers were little better than a body-guard for the union agitators. The remarkable thing is that the whole county business could be stopped in 48 hours if the laws were enforced. Webster county officials notified the campers to leave or go to jail, and they promptly moved out. It was known in advance that Christian county would not tolerate them, and there has been no attempt to organize a camp there. But Hopkins county seems to foster these law-breakers, though one camp is within a mile and a half of Madisonville, the county seat, and the town itself was fired into by men from the camp. Adj. Gen. Murray has recently made a second visit to the county and reports no need of state troops. There is none. A sheriff's posse of 100 men could quickly stop the trouble. But in the absence of official action the situation is tense and the danger acute.

The story of how the present deplorable conditions arose will be told in subsequent letters. C. M. H.

GONE DEMOCRATIC.

Entire County Ticket Elected by Plurality in the Neighborhood of 450.

CLOSE RACE FOR STATE SENATOR

Comparisons Made With the Votes Cast in the Last Presidential Election.

The total vote cast in the county last year for the presidential candidates was 6,506. In that election Bryan received a plurality of 297 and Beckham 241. There were 3,321 votes cast for Bryan and 3,094 for McKinley.

Tuesday the total vote cast in the state senator race, on returns as received by telephone, is 6,202. Of this Edwards received 3,820 and Feland 2,382, giving the county to the democratic nominee by 488 majority. At Madisonville the figures made by the democrats vary from this, and give Edwards 469 majority.

Feland's lead in Christian county is 445, with a margin for gain in the contested ballots not yet counted.

On the face of THE BEE's returns Given, for county judge, wins by 445 plurality. The other democratic candidates go in by pluralities varying somewhat from this figure. Miss Brown, for school superintendent, has the largest plurality, and Bradley, for representative, the smallest.

These results can be seen and compared by reference to the tabulated returns published in this issue.

It will be seen that the total vote in the two Earlington precincts this year is 565, as against 872 last year. Last year the republican plurality in these precincts was 174; this year it is 300.

The other precinct that shows decided republican gains is Morton's Gap, where there was last year a democratic plurality of 48, but this year a republican plurality of 26, with the total vote 320 in 1900 and 343 this year. At Madisonville the republican plurality in the five precincts in 1900 was 61. This year these precincts give a democratic plurality of 83.

White Plains, Nortonville, Barnsley, West Hanson, North and South Nebo, Dalton and Silent Run show democratic losses as compared with last year. St. Charles, Isley, Maniton and Richland show democratic gains.

In 1899 the Earlington Precincts gave 230 republican plurality; in 1900 the republican plurality was 174; this year 300. The election here was not by any means wholly on political lines. Many democrats voted and worked for the republican ticket and many did not vote at all.

INCREASED OUTPUT.

Reinecke Coal Co. Shows Better Month's Work in October than the Previous Month.

The Reinecke Coal Company, compelled to operate its mine near Madisonville under guard in order to guarantee the safety of the lives of its employees and to preserve its property, shows nevertheless, in spite of the unfavorable circumstances surrounding, an increased output of coal for the month of October as compared with September.

This company's mine was shut down by rioters for eight days in September and during that month the output was 18,187 tons. For October the total output is 23,128 tons, a gain of 4,941 tons. The armed union camp is still maintained near the Reinecke mines.

The Sick.

Miss Annie Conner is confined to her room with an attack of grippe. Mrs. Eugene Cernell, who has been so seriously ill with typhoid fever, is now thought to be improving.

Lawrence Kilroy's little girl is still quite sick. Miss Laura Norwood is now confined to her bed with malarial fever.

Stop the Blight

It is a sad thing to see fine fruit trees spoiled by the blight. You can always tell them from the rest. They never do well afterwards but stay small and sickly.

It is worse to see a blight strike children. Good health is the natural right of children. But some of them don't get their rights. While the rest grow big and strong one stays small and weak.

Scott's Emulsion can stop that blight. There is no reason why such a child should stay small. Scott's Emulsion is a medicine with lots of strength in it—the kind of strength that makes things grow.

Scott's Emulsion makes children grow, makes them cat, makes them sleep, makes them play. Give the weak child a chance. Scott's Emulsion will make it catch up with the rest.

This picture represents the Trade Mark of Scott's Emulsion, and is the property of Dr. J. C. F. Scott & Co., Ltd., London, England. Send for free literature. Scott's Emulsion is sold by all druggists.

DOWN IN THE MINES.

Outside of the great interest taken by the coal companies of this county in behalf of their employees, to see that they are not only provided with steady work at good wages and a feebly care thrown around them in time of need and sickness, they are also protected when in the right, while performing duties of trust and honor. As an illustration, take a look around the county and see the interest manifested by them, when one of their men was shot at, or in any way mistreated by the U. M. W.'s, thousands of dollars in reward has been offered for the detection and punishment of the offenders. They know they are in the right and ask their men only to follow along the paths that are marked by justice to all, and therefore are always ready to try to the defense of those in their employ. And while on many occasions the companies have been greatly imposed upon by the U. M. W.'s, they have cautioned their men against acts of violence except when acting in self defense, as has been shown, when the protectors of their property only shot when first fired upon. One of the late acts of a neighboring coal company when one of its guards was assaulted, was to offer a large reward for the capture and punishment of the criminals. Also to call upon the state for a similar reward all of which plainly show the love and esteem they entertain for those who stand up for right in the face of desperate opposition.

Many hundred U. M. W.'s are said to be in this county making preparations at some early date to move upon some of the mines, and by force to close the mines down. Calculations often fail, and this we are satisfied will be no exception to the many recorded failures, for our miners, who are contented and who have been tantalized almost beyond endurance are determined to resist to death all onslaughts made upon their rights and the property of their employer.

The miners now at work in this county are indeed enjoying a boom. Every mine running full time, men making good wages, and all well contented, and want no change of policy.

A friend just returning from a mine where only union miners are allowed to work, says they are showing great soreness at the galling vote they are forced to wear, are getting very tired of paying five per cent without receiving any benefit. The truth is, as one recently said, they have been deceived and misled when they joined the U. M. W.'s, and there can be no doubt but a majority of them if left to exercise their own free will, would soon revolt against a form of slavery they are now suffering under.

There is no doubt but what the agitators who are camping within Hopkins county are entitled to a great portion of the credit of carrying the county at the election this week, and it remains to be seen what benefit they will derive from their action. Winter is coming on, and heavy clothing and fuel will be in demand, also warmer quarters will be needed. Will these not be supplied them in return for their help?

The result of the election, we are satisfied, will not in the least affect the action of the Hopkins County miners towards the U. M. W.'s. They have taken a stand for what they think is right, and there they will be found at all times.

N. W. Huff was called out to repair a break in No. 14 wire Tuesday. Rocky comes in quite handy in cases of this kind.

There will be several changes made among the switchmen in Henderson and Earlington yards. Mr. Hollingsworth goes to Henderson, Mr. Connor comes to Earlington, and Mr. Mahoney is off on a short vacation and Switchman Blandin is running Henderson yard during his absence.

Conductor Joe Bureh and Flagman Rainey were in Earlington Tuesday attending the air car.

Hill Engineers Stanfield and Crawford were up Monday and Tuesday taking lessons on hot air.

Morris Colbert is now assisting the night car inspector. Robt. Davenport is crossing flagman.

Engineer Billie Griffith has accounting a hard run of luck on account of 91 being late two consecutive days he has been on through freight.

Harry Bramwell was on work train Monday.

We understand Ed Brody is contemplating going to braking.

Engineer Wm. Fitzgerald says he would be jealous of Mike Bohan if he was not bald headed, but when he takes off his hat to bow to the young ladies it is all off.

Dispatcher Willie N. Griffen is making a good record as day dispatcher. One secret of Willie's success and popularity is he never, under any circumstances, loses his temper or gets rattled.

Not Curren says he is in the matrimonial market. Don't all you girls speak at once.

The crossing gate was slightly disfigured a day or so ago but has since been replaced with a new one.

The interlock at Edgeline Junction is now in working order and the various voluminous bulletins are void.

On account of Tuesday being election day and the mines not running, the coal run was called off.

Conductor Bob Johnson went hunting Monday and killed 43 woodpeckers.

Agent E. M. Orr will accompany his wife as far as Kansas City on her western trip to Portland, Oregon.

Doglan McGrath went to Owensboro Sunday to see his cousin, Tim Mahoney, who has been very sick with appendicitis but is thought to be recovering.

On account of Conductor C. B. Moody attending the air car, John Longstaff took his mount and Frank Sweeney caught the coal run.

Operator Brooks went to Springfield Sunday to see his best girl.

There is no scarcity of coal cars on the Henderson Division at present. There were over 300 in the yard Monday.

Yard Clerk G. G. Subitt is off on a month's leave of absence. S. T. Kohl of Seebie is working during his absence.

We understand a certain railroad man connected with the mechanical department and a railroad girl will wed before many moons have waned.

Engineer Jos. Rildoran who has run the pay car engine for a number of years has concluded to give the run up. Several engineers have asked for it but no one has been selected so far.

The new St. L. & I. S. 80,000 capacity pons are rather large for some of the coal tips.

The daughter of L. Kilroy, who has been sick with fever for some time, is thought to be recovering.

Crouching

In every cough there lurks, like a crouching tiger, the probability of consumption. The throat and lungs become rough and inflamed from coughing and in the terms of consumption find an easy entrance. Take no chances with the dangerous foe. For 60 years there has been a perfect cure. What a record! Sixty years of cures.

Waller's Cherry Pectoral

soothe and heals the wounded throat and lungs. You escape an attack of consumption with all its terrible suffering and uncertain results. There is nothing so bad for the throat and lungs as coughing.

A 25c. bottle will cure an ordinary cough; harder cough will need a 50c. size; the dollar bottle is cheapest in the long run.

"One of my sons was splitting his throat with a cough very ill. We could hardly see any chance of his being well. We tried all kinds of medicine, but did him no good. But one bottle of Waller's Cherry Pectoral cured him, and saved his life." C. O. ARDREMAN, New York.

YESTERDAY'S ELECTIONS.

Tammany Hall Goes Down Before the Inevitable Force of the Fusion Ticket.

CITY, COUNTY AND STATE GO REPUBLICAN

Ohio Republicans Surprise Themselves, and are Asking "What Did It?"—Down Rolls Up Her Biggest Republican Majority—The Total Results in Other States Voting.

New York, Nov. 6.—Beth Low, for mayor president of Columbia university and four years ago the citizens' union candidate for the first mayor of Greater New York, was elected, yesterday, the second mayor of Greater New York by a plurality anywhere from 30,000 to 40,000, defeating Edward M. Shepard, of Brooklyn, the democratic nominee. The campaign was an exciting one, and the vote though somewhat less than in the presidential election a year ago, was the largest ever polled in a municipal contest in this country.

In addition to the canvass for mayor, public interest largely centered in the nomination by the fusionists of William Travers Jerome, for district attorney, and Mayor Robert A. Van Wyck, by the democrats, for justice of the supreme court, who were voted for only in the territory contained in New York county. Returns received up to 11 p. m. indicated that Jerome had been elected by a comfortable plurality and that Mayor Van Wyck had been defeated, the latter running behind his ticket from 15,000 to 20,000.

Returns also indicate the complete triumph here of the Greater New York fusion ticket, Charles Vincent Foran, the nominee of the citizens' union and the republicans for president of the board of aldermen, defeating George H. Van Hoesen, the democratic nominee.

In the various municipal contests reported from up the state the most interesting elections noted were those of Albany, Troy, Rochester, Syracuse and Buffalo. The city of Albany was carried by the republicans, ex-Senator David B. Hill taking so active part in the local canvass.

The election in Troy was a lively one, a number of arrests for illegal voting being made. United States Senator Murphy headed the fight for the candidate of the democrats, while former Gov. Black managed the campaign for the progressive democratic-republican ticket. Daniel E. Conway was elected for mayor, supported by ex-Gov. Black, was easily elected.

In Buffalo the entire republican city and county tickets were elected, Erasmus C. Knight, the state comptroller, being chosen mayor.

The result in Rochester was close, but Mayor Warner's friends claim the election of the republican candidate.

CHOKER TURN PHILIPPINES.

People Wanted a Change, and Tammany House is That Will.

New York, Nov. 6.—At ten o'clock last night Richard Croker, again commenting on Mr. Shepard's defeat, said he could not describe it to you in any way. "The people wanted a change," said he, "and the organization bows to the will of the people. Tammany Hall has been in power for practically 17 years, and if any one party were to remain in control for too long a period the tendency would be toward a perpetuation of power, until the result would resemble a monarchy. Tammany has always profited by defeat and, I hope, will do so this time."

Mr. Croker said that all dissatisfied persons had voted against the democratic nominee, and that had contributed much to the result. Mr. Croker retired at midnight. Before going to his apartments he told some of his intimate friends that this campaign was the last he would personally conduct.

REPUBLICANS CARRY STATE.

Returns Show a Decided Majority in the Next Assembly.

New York, Nov. 6.—H. E. Fox, secretary of the republican state committee, at 12:30 a. m. to-day issued this statement:

"The republicans will have a decided majority in the next assembly. Returns received at republican state headquarters at midnight show that the republicans have elected 15 members in counties outside of Greater New York, with Rockland county and one district in Westchester not yet heard from. Outside of Greater New York, the democrats have elected only two members in Erie county, one in Greene, one in Schoharie and one in Yates. An independent has been chosen in Albany against Kelly, the regular democratic candidate. Returns from the districts in Greater New York indicated that the number of republicans there will be greater than it was last year."

Virginia Goes Democratic. Richmond, Va., Nov. 5.—Indications at ten o'clock are that the democratic state ticket is elected by 30,000 majority or more.

OHIO.

Republicans Surprised Themselves and Everybody is Asking "What Did It?"

Columbus, O., Nov. 6.—The republicans yesterday carried Ohio by such increased plurality on their state ticket and with such an enlarged majority in the legislature as to cause all sorts of comment on "What Did It?" The result continues the republicans in power in the state, making an epoch of 12 years in succession for that party in Ohio, and it insures the re-election of Senator Forsaker.

The extent of the republican success is attributed to the silver democrats not voting; to the attitude of John R. McLean, the democratic candidate for governor two years ago and the Ohio member of the democratic national committee, to the superior organization of the republicans, and other causes.

The republicans attribute the result largely to the popular desire not to disturb the prevailing property, in accordance with Senator Hanna's appeal to "let well enough alone"; to the desire to support President Roosevelt in carrying out the policies of the late President McKinley, and to the endorsement of Gov. Nash and Senator Forsaker.

Chairman Dick sent a messenger to Gov. Nash at the state house, and telegrams to Senator Forsaker at Cincinnati and Senator Hanna at Cleveland, congratulating them on their lines.

The republicans are so elated over their triumph that they are talking of Congressman Dick, who has been chairman of their state committee for 11 years, for governor two years hence, when Senator Hanna stands for re-election, and it is generally predicted that John R. McLean there will be the democratic candidate for senator.

It is believed that Hon. Charles W. Folger, of Cincinnati, who has been an avowed candidate against Forsaker, will receive the complimentary vote of the democratic minority in the present legislature for senator.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Craze Re-Elected by a Plurality Over Seventy Thousand—Boston Goes for Quincy.

Boston, Nov. 6.—W. Murray Crane of Dalton, republican, was re-elected governor of Massachusetts for the third time, yesterday, by a plurality of 70,000 over John J. Quincy, the democratic candidate. The republicans also elected their entire state ticket and have the two-thirds majority in the legislature of 1902.

Returns from every city and town in the state, with the exception of Dorchester, give the republicans 185,500; Quincy, democrat, 115,570. Much interest in the returns centered in this city, which went for Quincy by almost 7,000. It is more than the republican estimate, and a little less than the democratic. The democrats also elected all their candidates for officers in Suffolk county by much larger margins than that given Mr. Quincy.

The state legislature of 1902 will be strongly republican, although the democrats gained a few votes. Josiah Quincy, the democratic candidate for governor, ran about 10,000 behind the vote cast for the party candidate in the presidential election, last year, but he so materially increased the democratic vote in Boston, to give the local leaders great confidence for a party victory in the municipal election next month.

Fine weather proved an excellent incentive for going to the polls, which probably accounted for the heavy vote cast in all districts. The election was a remarkably quiet one, although there were one or two contests for state senators that aroused some interest.

IOWA.

With a Heavy Felling Off in the Vote, the Republican Majority the Largest Ever Given.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 6.—The result in Iowa is remarkable. With a marked falling off in the vote throughout the state, the loss in some precincts being forty and fifty per cent. in the total vote, and the average loss for the state being one-fifth of the total vote of two years ago, A. B. Cummins, the republican candidate, has been elected by a plurality of something like 90,000, the largest ever given a governor in this state.

The entire republican state ticket is elected by similar pluralities, and ex-Governor John A. Macomber, chairman of the republican state central committee, said at midnight:

"We will carry the state by 90,000, and will make good gains in the legislature."

The republican state ticket is elected by similar pluralities, and ex-Governor John A. Macomber, chairman of the republican state central committee, said at midnight:

"We will carry the state by 90,000, and will make good gains in the legislature."

The general assembly will be republican strongly. Pawtucket and Woonsocket have elected democratic mayors, as has also Providence. In Providence and Central Falls the contest is close.

SUPPLIES FOR INSURGENT

Mostly Carried by Small Boats—Dark Nights—Capture of Insurgent's Commissary.

Manila, Nov. 4.—Advice from Catbalogan, Samar, say it is well known that in spite of the fact that all ports of Samar are closed, supplies still reach the insurgents. Most of this work is done during dark nights by small boats from the island of Leyte. Every available gunboat is now on duty to prevent this.

The capture of Insurgent's commissary has proved a great blow to the insurgents, as it renders future supplies very precarious.

Conditions in the island of Leyte are very annoying to Gen. Smith. A large number of junks are used with the express object of aiding the insurgents in Samar, covering the movements of fugitives and landing provisions and clothing.

SCHELEY COURT OF INQUIRY.

Testimony All in, and the "Proceedings" Begins the Presentation of Its Case.

Washington, Nov. 5.—The Scheley court of inquiry reached the argument stage at the beginning of the afternoon session yesterday. The morning sitting was devoted to listening to Admiral Scheley and Capt. Sigbee in making corrections of their testimony, which had been given previously, and the introduction by Judge-Advocate Lemly of numerous documents bearing upon different phases of the inquiry.

The opening speech of the argument in the case was made in behalf of the government by Mr. E. P. Hanna, assistant to the judge-advocate. He began his presentation of the case a few minutes after the court convened at two o'clock, and when the court adjourned two hours later he had covered more than half of the ground involved in the controversy.

INDIANA'S CONTRIBUTION.

The Hoosiers Propose to be Prompt with Their Contribution to McKinley Memorial.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 5.—It was planned, yesterday, at the governor's office, that Indiana's contribution to the McKinley memorial fund should be made within the next 90 days. Last week the governor appointed a committee, giving each congressional district representation. The first meeting was held yesterday forenoon. The governor, who was made permanent chairman of the committee, presided at the meeting. Senator Fairbanks will prepare an address that will be issued immediately to the people of the state, asking for contributions. It will be similar to the address sent out recently by the national commission, of which the senator is chairman.

GEN. FUNSTON MAY COME HOME

The Doughty Kansas Soldier Will Shortly Apply for Leave of Absence.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 5.—It is stated that Gen. Frederick Funston shortly will apply for leave of absence from the Philippines and return to the United States on a visit. It is said that he is recovering rapidly from the operation for gonorrhea recently undergone at a Manila hospital. Gen. Fred D. Grant will, it is stated, likely succeed Gen. Funston in command of the San Fernando district.

Another Hero's Progress.

Brussels, Nov. 4.—Princess Elizabeth, who was married October 2, 1900, to Prince Albert, heir presumptive to the throne of Belgium, yesterday gave birth to a son, who will be christened Leopold. In the course of the afternoon the king visited Prince Albert to congratulate him on his event, expressed his joy and promised to act as godfather.

Health Authorities Vigilant.

Washington, Nov. 4.—There were no advices, yesterday, to the Marine hospital service from its representatives in Liverpool or Glasgow regarding the bubonic plague. The officials will exert every effort to prevent the introduction of the plague into the United States, to which end there will be earnest co-operation between the national and state authorities.

Unsettled About Miss Stone.

Constantinople, Nov. 4.—Nothing is publicly known here, beyond what has already been cabled to the press, regarding the whereabouts and fate of Miss Ellen M. Stone, the abducted American missionary, or the progress of the negotiations for her ransom. In the absence of news, there is considerable disquiet.

The Captive Still Alive.

New York, Nov. 6.—A dispatch to the World from Samokov, Bulgaria, says: Miss Ellen M. Stone and Mrs. Talika have been seen within the last two days by emissaries sent by American Diplomatic Agent Dickinson from Sofia to treat with the brigands.

Costly Fire at Portland, Me.

Portland, Me., Nov. 6.—Fire on Commercial street destroyed the wholesale grocery store of the Milliken Tomlinson Co., causing a loss estimated at nearly a quarter of a million dollars.

Receipts of Alaska Salmon.

San Francisco, Nov. 6.—Including the cargo of the schooner W. F. Jewett, which arrived Saturday, the total receipts of Alaska salmon this season amount to 1,597,723 cases and 12,293 barrels.

LIZZIE

A Story of the Sycamore Powder Mills.

BY "TIMMIE."

CHAPTER VII.

Several weeks had elapsed since Lizzie's return to the Sycamore Mills, and the pure country food and air had again painted her cheeks with a delicate flush of health—the golden days of glorious October were at hand and the autumn winds, laden with the scent of sweetgum and cedar sighed through the bending trees, carpeted the earth with vermillion-leaved leaves, through the half-opened buds the velvet skins of the chestnuts were gleaming, and the squirrels whisked busily about gathering their winter store.

One evening Lizzie wandered down to her favorite haunt, the old log by the spring. Sitting there she thought of the handsome young stranger who had only one year ago broken the monotony of her quiet life and caused her pulse to bound and her heart to quiver with the ecstasy of a first awakened love, and then in so short a time had utterly forgotten her and was to be married today to Jessie Maynard. The sound of a quick firm step on the leaves arrested her attention and looking up she saw Carrington coming toward her with outstretched hands and a happy smile lighting up his handsome face. On reaching Lizzie, and before she could prevent him, he clasped both of her hands in his and said:

"Little girl, one year ago this day you said if I was still of the same mind to come to the Sycamore Mills. My mind has never changed, my purpose has never wavered for one instant and am here to claim my reward. To tell you I love you is unnecessary as you know it only too well. Amid the whirl and excitement of a hurried city life your dear image and the remembrance of this quiet, restful, quaint old place have been ever present with me and I know of no sweeter joy nor higher form of bliss than to hear from those dear lips the words, 'I love you!'"

Lizzie, dazed by the suddenness of his unexpected appearance and unable to stop his impetuous words stood with a scornful, incredulous look in her wondering eyes until he finished speaking, then said:

"Mr. Carrington, you must be out of your mind. Wasn't you to marry my friend and schoolmate, Jessie Maynard today? What are you doing away from her? Why did you come here?"

To say Carrington was dumbfounded but he feebly expressed his state of feeling.

"I to be married to Jessie Maynard!" he exclaimed, "why I never heard of her. I wouldn't marry any one in the whole round world but you, Lizzie. There is some terrible mistake; tell me why you thought I, of all men, was to be married to your friend, and let us see if I cannot assist you to clear up this mystery."

Lizzie then told him what had passed between her and Jessie Maynard and how she thought he was the Howell Carrington she had reference to. Although she struggled bravely to hide her emotion she could not prevent her voice from trembling in her eyes, and she looked up shyly and said:

"So you were not the Carrington after all?"

"No, dearest one," he said as he took her tenderly in his arms and kissed her fair brow, "I am not. There may be dozens of Carringtons but there are none who could love any one so devoutly and tenderly as I do you."

"Come, let's go to the house and see mother. You were always a great friend of her's."

"Yes, and she was always a very great friend of mine. I want to hear that dear old soul say, 'Well for the land's sake, you don't mean to say you want to marry Lizzie, do you? Why she's only a child yet; better wait a year or two.'"

"Yes, I am sure mother will think I am too young, and I think so too."

"Oh no you are not, Lizzie; I can't wait another year. Won't you say two months?"

And so they compromised on two months.

In the drawing room of an elegantly furnished residence at 621 State street, Chicago, there hangs a costly picture of a young girl seated on a fallen log. In the background is a spring and some sunnily bushes and Carrington never tires of showing this picture to his friends.

THE END.

women and Jews.

Jewels, candy, flowers, man—that is, the life of a woman's preference. Jewels form a magnet of mighty power to the average woman. Even that greatest of all jewels, health, is often ruined in the strenuous efforts to make or save the money to purchase them. If a woman will risk her health to get a coveted gem, then let her fortify herself against the insidious consequences of coughs, colds and bronchial affections by the regular use of Dr. Beech's German Syrup. It will promptly arrest consumption in its early stages and heal the affected lungs, loosen the chest and drive the dread disease from the system. It is not a cure-all, but it is a certain cure for coughs, colds and all bronchial troubles. You can get Dr. G. G. Green's reliable remedies at St. Bernard Drug Store.

Get Green's Special Almanac.

James J. Corbett has been up on supplementary proceedings in New York. In the course of his examination he said that he did not own any personal property, had no diamonds—he considered them vulgar—owned no real property and had no money. He was asked what he did with $24,000 which he obtained from the sale of certain property in which he was interested. He replied: "I live a pretty fast clip. I lived like a king. I gambled. I played the races. I entertained my friends. What's $24,000! I have spent ten times $24,000 in a short time. Why, $24,000 don't last me six months. It's a mere bagatelle to me." Can any one now question Mr. Corbett's right to the sobriquet of "Gentleman"?—Exchange.

Brain Food Nonsense.

Another ridiculous food fad has been branded by the most competent authorities. They have dispelled the silly notion that one kind of food is needed for the brain, another for muscles, and still another for bones. A correct diet will not only nourish a particular part of the body but it will sustain every other part. Yet, however good your food may be, its nutriment is destroyed by indigestion or dyspepsia. You must prepare for their appearance or prevent their coming by taking regular doses of Green's August Flower, the favorite medicine of the healthy millions. A food that aids digestion, stimulates the liver to healthy action, purifies the blood, and makes you feel buoyant and vigorous. You can get Dr. G. G. Green's reliable remedies at St. Bernard Drug Store. Get Green's Special Almanac.

Fortune had some sport with Jasper McClure one day last week, says the Kentucky Standard. At dinner he found seven pearls in an oyster he was eating. A visit to a jeweler brought the information that each one would have been worth $5. "If they had not been cooked," he also held the 10th next to the one that drew a $10 gold piece.

SAUCE FOR THE TURKEY

Now is the harvest time for the delicious fruit that adds so much to the turkey dinner. All along the Atlantic coast, where the cranberry vines run red, the pickers are at work, clawing, pulling and raking the berries from their stems. Already are the markets filled with barrels of this most appealing of relishes.

While one unconsciously turns to Cape Cod when the word "cranberry" is used, the fact of the matter is that

A PAID CRANBERRY PICKER.

New Jersey is the state in which the cranberry industry had its beginning. Old John Webb of Ocean county was the originator of cranberry culture. He drained marsh lands, setting it out in cranberry bogs, despite the fears of his neighbors, and vindicated his theory that cranberry growing could be made a profitable industry. Fifty dollars a barrel was what he got for his first crop, and the neighbors ceased to jeer. Instead they promptly followed his example.

The nine counties of southern New Jersey, Ocean, Burlington, Atlantic and, in a lesser degree, Cape May and Monmouth, are the home of the cranberry. At this time all the otherwise unemployed labor of the countryside in these districts is engaged in harvesting the crop. Laboring men, women and children and whole families of the "Piners," a class analogous to the "Crackers" of the south, are enlisted in the work. Carloads of pickers are brought down from the Italian quarters of New York and Philadelphia. Even tramps are pressed into service, and it is not an unusual thing for the charitable societies of the large cities of the state to furnish the wanderers with free transportation to the cranberry region.

A cranberry bog is generally six to ten rods square and is surrounded by ditches and dikes, so that it can be kept in the condition necessary for the welfare of the vines. When harvest time comes, lines are fastened to pegs in the ground, dividing the bog into rows or alleys five or six feet wide. Every picker is assigned his or her individual row, although in some districts the pickers work in companies for the sake of company.

Each person is provided with a "measure," a tin vessel holding exactly six quarts. With the measure between the knees or laid in a convenient position at one side the picker claws, rakes and scoops with fingers, deftly stripping the vines and throwing the berries into the measure. Of course leaves and twigs often find their way into the tin, to be removed later by a screening process. But it is not advisable to be too careless in picking, for there is always an oversight looking on, and negligence often results in the delinquent picker being forced to journey to another bog to find a new employer.

There is no doubt about the berry picking being hard on the hands. Some pickers tie cotton around their fingers, others wear what are known as "finger stints," but some wear nothing at all, and at night their poor finger ends are red, sore and aching and covered with "blisters." The whole work is done on the hands and knees, and on a busy day the sear on a berry bog reminds one irresistibly of antebellum days on a cotton plantation, though the overseer is only armed with "cutts words" instead of the long whip.

Each person carrying a full measure (no partial measure is counted) to the "house" or place of screening and packing receives a ticket. When a picker can show ten of these tickets, he exchanges them for a new ticket of ten times value and so on. As the season progresses the picker and his employer can thus quickly estimate how much he has earned.

Native pickers get 50 cents per bushel for picking. The Italians work by contract on the padrone system, live in little shanties by the side of the bogs, and their labor is considerably cheaper. Of course the earnings of the pickers vary with their experience. A smart picker can sometimes pick two measures to another's one. A new picker can scarcely earn more than 50 cents a day to start with and if he is wise will have provided himself with a couple of strong leather pads for his knees. But even with these the chances are that he will wake up next morning stiffer and sorer than an army mule after a day's campaign.

The day's work begins at a very reasonable hour, 7:30 to 9:30 a. m., many of the toilers coming several miles to the bog after the morning housework is done. At noon all knock off for lunch, those who have brought their meals with them eating them on the bog, while the others go to some convenient house. Then, after an hour of rest, work is resumed to continue until about 5 in the afternoon.

On Cape Cod the berries are all gathered and shipped in barrels. The Jersey grower prefers crates. From the first of June until the harvest is over all the sawmills in the Jersey pine district are engaged in making these. All the toilers coming several miles to the bog are used in their manufacture, and they are consequently cheaper than barrels. The making of these crates is in itself a profitable industry. For the men engaged on this work become remarkably expert and at the rate of a cent a box can earn from $4 to $6 a day.

One strange thing about the cranberry industry is that, although it originated in New Jersey, one can search the city retail markets and not find a Jersey berry for sale. All cranberries are sold as Cape Cod. The reason for this developed in the early days of the industry. Berries were then hurried to the market in the desire to make the first sales. Cape Cod berries were always beautifully colored, while those coming from the Jersey bogs were green in color owing to the fact that in Jersey most of the berries are hidden from the sun through the luxuriant growth of the vines. The buyers naturally preferred what seemed to be the riper fruit.

A few years' experience, however, showed the Jerseyman that while the Cape Cod fruit would not, in cranberry parlance, "stand up" or retain its hardness till after Christmas the Jersey berry had by that time attained as good a color and as much firmness as its rival if stored away. So the simple expedient is adopted of preserving the berries until then and putting them on the market as Cape Cod produce. By that time the real Cape Cod fruit has either been consumed or has rotted, and the Jersey product finds ready sale.

Of course, like everything else, the cranberry industry has its ups and downs, its good seasons and its bad. The enormous prices paid for the first few crops resulted in overproduction, and the growers realized only $2 or $3 a bushel. Then came a succession of poor cranberry seasons, and those who had invested their all in the business became bankrupt. For the past few years the prices paid for the fruit have averaged about the same each year, and the industry has been placed on a stable basis. At an average price of $25.00 a bushel, it is no uncommon thing for some of the larger growers to clear from $10,000 to $20,000 on a single year's yield, the average cost of picking, sorting, boxing and carting to a retail depot being about 90 cents per box of thirty-two quarts.

A FACT ABOUT THE "BLUES"

What is known as the "Blues" is seldom occasioned by actual existing external conditions, but in the great majority of cases by a disordered LIVER.

THIS IS A FACT which may be demonstrated by trying a course of

"Human Hearts."

That great and beautiful drama, "Human Hearts," will be presented at Temple Theater, Tuesday, Nov. 12. "Human Hearts," a companion play to, but entirely different from, "Shore Acres," is regarded as one of the best American stage productions of the past ten years. When any play by a comparatively unknown author first merits attention enough to secure an opening and then goes on to the stage of the Fifth Avenue Theater and continues one whole season without cessation, it is a guarantee of its qualified power and its real merit as well, as the Fifth Avenue Theater clientele is one that will not tolerate even a tolerably good one for long. But let's be more clear, in its scenes and situations, not overdrawn, and in its character painting and dialogue true to nature in the absolute; then let it be enacted by only the masters of the dramatic art, and all New York will forsake the house where "Oath" and comedy, even the lighter charm-burlesque hold sway, to pay tribute to the work of any brainy author who, through the medium of the stage, holds up to them a true picture of American life. Such was the experience of "Human Hearts," and now in its fifth season, it comes to the Temple Theater. It should, and undoubtedly will, meet with the generous welcome that has ever been accorded it by the American people.

A Village Blacksmith Saved His Little Son's Life.

Mr. H. H. Black, the well-known village blacksmith at Grahamville, Sullivan Co., N. Y., says: "Our little son, five years old, has been subject to croup, and so bad have the attacks been that we have feared many times that he would die. We have had the doctor and used many medicines, but Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is now our sole reliance. It seems to dissolve the tough mucus and by giving frequent doses when the cough symptoms appear we have found that the dreaded croup is cured before it gets settled." There is no danger in giving this remedy for it contains no opium or other injurious drug and may be given as occidentally to a babe as to an adult. For sale by St. Bernard Drug Store, Earlinton; Ben T. Holliston, Mordons Gap; Geo. Kling, St. Charles.

William Dean Howells, the novelist, said in a recent interview that after a desperate endeavor he had at last been able to accustom himself to dictate his letters to a stenographer, but, he added, he could not dictate fiction in this fashion and never expected to be able to do so.

Literary Social.

The literary meeting of the Epworth League for this month was an unusually interesting one. The Leaguers were entertained at the home of Misses Maggie and Leura Campbell Tuesday evening, having for a study "Alfred Tennyson and Works." All the members present took part, either with reviews, quotations, or readings. Mrs. Y. Q. Walker gave the biography of his life, and "The Bugle Song" was rendered by a quartette.

The next meeting will be held with Miss Carrie Crenshaw and the subject will be "Songs and Their Authors."

Spreads Like Wildfire.

When things are "the best," they become "the best selling." Abraham Hare, a leading druggist, of Belleville, O., writes: "Electric Bitters are the best selling liquid I have handled in 30 years." You know why? Most diseases begin in disorders of stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, blood and nerves. Electric Bitters tones up the stomach, regulates liver, kidneys and bowels, purifies the blood, strengthens the nerves, hence cures multitudes of maladies. It builds up the system. Puts new life and vigor into any man, woman, child, run-down or weak. Price 25 cents. Sold at St. Bernard Drugstore.

Attorney Rayner, one of the counsel of Admiral Schley in the court of inquiry, was once interrupted by former Speaker Reed while making a speech in favor of a reduction of the tariff, with the result: "Did the gentleman hear my speech Saturday?" Astounding Discovery.

PAUNCEFOTE IS READY.

Lord Pauncefote, the British Ambassador, Calls Officially Upon Secretary Hay.

READY TO GO TO WORK ON NEW TREATY.

The Condition at the Convention is at Present Nearly in the Form of a Protocol, Which Will be Transferred into the Form of a Formal Treaty Without Delay.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Lord Pauncefote, the British ambassador, called upon Secretary Hay to announce formally to the secretary his return from a vacation in England and his readiness to undertake at once the conclusion of the new treaty. The interview lasted about half an hour. Many topics were touched upon, but the treaty, which was not given particular consideration, the conversation on that point being rather preliminary to the beginning of the treaty drafting. Lord Pauncefote did not bring with him to the state department a copy of the proposed convention. In fact, this document does not exist as such, for, although the principal points of the treaty have been agreed upon between the two principals, they have yet to be transferred from protocol into a formal treaty. This work of transference will begin in a few weeks, according to the present expectation, and if it proceeds steadily after that time, the new treaty will be in shape for submission to the senate immediately after that body convenes next month.

Lord Pauncefote did not bring to Secretary Hay any late news respecting the views of the British government as to the treaty. The secretary has been advised so fully by Ambassador Choate at their conference at New Haven of the details of what had been done in London, and the reports had been so complete that there was nothing new to be communicated on the subject.

THREE CONFIDENCE MEN.

Arrested at New Orleans Believed to be the Wagner (Mont). Train Robbers.

New Orleans, Nov. 5.—Kid Wilson, Charles Holmes, Frank Smiley and Wm. E. McKernon were put under arrest here, Saturday night, charged with being confidence men. Yesterday the police received information that the men are the Wagner (Mont). Train robbers, who are known to have come south after committing their sensational crime. Affidavits have been made against the men. They will be held, awaiting further advice from Montana. Some of the money stolen in the robbery, it is thought has been put in circulation here.

COMPELLED TO DECLINE.

Courtesies that Would Have Been Very Agreeable Under Other Circumstances.

Knoxville, Tenn., Nov. 5.—In declining an invitation to visit Knoxville, Admiral Schley assigns this as his reason: "The fatigue incident to the prolonged sessions of the committee investigation has necessitated my taking a long rest, and I feel, therefore that I am compelled to decline courtesies that would have been very agreeable to me to accept under other circumstances."

Gov. Taft's Illness.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Secretary Root received a cable message yesterday, from Gov. Taft, saying that of account of the recent operation he had undergone he would be incapacitated for duty for about three weeks. He said the operation had been successful, and that his convalescence was progressing satisfactorily. During his disability, Judge Wright, who had been appointed vice-governor will administer the civil affairs of the Philippine government.

Mrs. Roosevelt Indignant.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Mrs. Roosevelt, wife of the president of the United States, is indignant at the impertinence of the press correspondent who, in an alleged interview, has been telling how economical the president's wife is in the matter of dress. The interview was a fake and the alleged information utterly at variance with the truth. Mrs. Roosevelt says her private affairs are her own.

King Edward's New Title.

London, Nov. 5.—King Edward, at a meeting of his privy council yesterday, signed the proclamation giving him his new title, as follows: "Edward the Seventh, by the grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British dominions beyond the sea, king, defender of the faith, and emperor of India."

Would Not With a Hint.

A DAY OF THANKSGIVING.

President Roosevelt Issues His First Proclamation Appointing a Day of Thanksgiving.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER TWENTY-EIGHT.

The President says that, in spite of the recent national sorrow, he People on Earth Have such Abundant Cause for Thanksgiving as We.

Washington, Nov. 4.—President Roosevelt has appointed Thursday, November 28, as a day of national thanksgiving by proclamation as follows:

A Proclamation: The season is high when, according to the time-hallowed custom of our people, the president appoints a day as the especial occasion for praise and thanksgiving to God.

This thanksgiving finds the people still bowed with sorrow for the death of a great and good president. We mourn President McKinley, who so loved and honored him; and the manner of his death should awaken in the breasts of our people a keen anxiety for the country, and at the same time a resolute purpose not to be driven by any calamity from the path of strong, orderly, popular liberty, which, as a nation, we have thus far safely trod.

Yet, in spite of this great disaster, it is nevertheless true that no people on earth have such abundant cause for thanksgiving as we have. The past year in particular has been one of peace and plenty. We have prospered in large material, and have been able to work for our own uplifting in things intellectual and spiritual. Let us remember that, as much has been given us, much will be expected from us; and that true homage comes from the heart as well as from the lips and shows itself in deeds. We can best prove our thankfulness to the Almighty by the way in which, on the earth and in the time, each of us does his duty to his fellow men.

Now, therefore, I, Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States, do hereby designate as a day of general thanksgiving, Thursday, the 28th of this present November, and do recommend that throughout the land the people cease from their wonted occupations, and that at their several homes and places of worship reverently thank the Giver of all good for the countless blessings of our annual life.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington this second day of November in the year of our Lord One thousand nine hundred and one, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and twenty-sixth.

[Signed] THEODORE ROOSEVELT. By the President: John Hay, Secretary of States.

While the British Lord Heavily, the Boers were Repulsed with Much Greater Loss.

Pretoria, Nov. 4.—Further details have been received regarding the attack by the Boers under Commandant-General Louw on the last day upon Col. Benson's column near Brakenlaage, eastern Transvaal. It appears that Col. Botha, who had been joined by a big commando aggregating a thousand men, attacked Col. Benson's rear guard, October 30, on the march, and captured two guns, but was unable to retain them. Col. Benson fell mortally wounded in the fight.

Maj. Wools-Sampson took command, collected the convoy, and took up a position for defense about 500 yards from the intrenchment prepared by the Boers. The captured guns were so situated that neither side could touch them.

The Boers made desperate efforts to overwhelm the whole British force, charging repeatedly right up to the British lines, and being driven back each time with heavy loss. The defense was stubborn and successful, being maintained through the whole of the following day and the succeeding night, until Col. Barter, who had marched all night from Bushman's Kop, brought relief in the morning of November 1. The Boers then retired. Their losses are estimated as between three hundred and four hundred.

Col. Benson did not long survive. Not only did Gen. Botha direct the attack, but he was killed, but personally shared in the fighting.

Warned by Whitecaps.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 3.—Much excitement exists in the third district of Lake county, on account of whitecaps. White men have also been notified to hasten the harvesting of cotton in order that the negroes may leave.

A Whole Family Cured.

Mrs. C. H. Kingsbury, who keeps a millinery and fancy goods store at St. Louis, Gratiot Co., Minn., and who is well known throughout the country, says:

"I was badly troubled with rheumatism, catarrh and neuralgia. I had liver complaint and was very bilious. I was in a bad condition every day I began to fear that I should never be a well woman that I should have to settle down into a chronic invalid, and live in the shadow of death. I had JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA recommended to me. I TOOK FOUR BOTTLES AND IT CURED ME, and cured my family both. I am very glad that I heard of it. I would cheerfully recommend it to every one. I have taken many other kinds of medicine. I prefer JOHNSTON'S to all of them." MICHAEL DRUG CO., Detroit, Mich.

While attending the Mayfield Elks Carnival Capt. Tom Henry of Repton was started by meeting up with his old friend, Col. Frank James. Mr. Henry walked up to James, covering part of his face with his hands to see if he would recognize him. But there was not a momentary blink in Col. James' eye, and he said, "I have been in doing so, although they had not seen each other for thirty years."

Capt. Henry was one of Quantrell's most daring lieutenants. Capt. Henry was in command of a raid on the Kentucky at Clifton, James being with him, when Henry was wounded five times, once right above the mouth, and the bullet hole is plainly seen now. He was captured there, after having lain on the battlefield two days and one night, and was hauled 40 miles on a slide to near Bloomfield, in Nelson county. There he was rescued by James and Quantrell. After six weeks lying up Capt. Henry again took the saddle, and about the first day of service received his sixth wound, and was again captured and carried to Louisville and tried for his life, after remaining in prison twenty months. He was released, however, in the spring of 1896, and then went to Texas, but has been living at Repton for the past thirty years.
